We, the People Still Matter!

Some – perhaps most readers - will consider this issue the ramblings of a lunatic. They may be correct. But this lunatic cannot help but see the incredible similarities between what is currently happening, and events that have happened – over and over – in the history of the world.

It appears to your editor that the government of the US has declared war on America. By 'government', I mean those people who currently control the Executive and Legislative branches of government, and who are planning to subvert the Judicial until control of that branch rests with them, too. As partners of the elected elites, we must add in the corporate media, the educational establishment, and the entertainment industry. They are in lock-step to neuter our Constitution, and us along with it.

Our President is doing everything he can to destroy our economy:

- He is importing huge numbers of minimum wage, illegal workers (yes, there is such a thing as an illegal human!), who will gladly take the jobs that our lower classes of citizens rely upon.
- He is destroying our energy sector. He has killed our own pipelines, and ended exploration and production leases on federal land. All at the same time that he is encouraging Russia's fossil fuel sector. In January, we were petroleum independent. By March, the US needed to import over 22,000 barrels of oil from Russia! Per month!! That is a lot of good American money and jobs he is sending to Putin.
- He is neutering our military in a number of ways: Forcing them to chase the ghosts of racism; Giving them the task of fighting climate change. A task for which they are completely unsuited. In addition, he is finding ways to make other, unfriendly, militaries stronger. His dalliance with Iran may come at a heavy price. His funding of Hamas is non-sensical. Russia grows stronger, and is challenging NATO members by firing actual live ammunition at them. And China now has the largest Navy in the world, and it is growing significantly faster than our own.
- Our K-12 education system has failed to educate. There are schools in major cities where no – read NONE – of the students are at required literacy or numeracy levels. This "dumbing down" of our education did not happen overnight, or by mistake. This could only have happened by design. But it's

A little humor

Have you ever noticed that all earth's scientific instruments searching for intelligent life...

Are pointing away from earth?

History will record that America's China policy from the 1970s until recently was very costly because it involved a great deal of self-deception about the nature of the Chinese regime and the men who were running it.

We are no better at it today.

Hillsdale's Imprimis points to the painful details.

OK, I guess, because higher education seems to no longer require educational competence for either admission, or graduation. AG Bill Barr believes that forcing public school education is unconstitutional.

None of the above should be a surprise. It has been coming for more than 70 years. It takes a long time to subvert a nation's military. It takes even longer to subvert an entire educational system, consisting of thousands of schools and universities. Eighty years ago, our government created a short film called "Don't be a sucker". Its point is still valid. No, dear readers, what we see happening today is the result of decades of planning and activities. What we see today are activities which may well have been considered treasonous just a few short years ago.

I would like to suggest that the 2016 election was a major disappointment to the far left. Had Hillary won, there would have been nothing to stand in their way from the final take-over of this country. Their response was to do everything they could to neuter the Presidency of Donald Trump. The far left recognizes that Congress is the most important prize, and they are doing everything in their power to ensure their control of Congress forever. DC and Puerto Rico statehood would give them 4 more senators. HR1 will legalize election fraud for all branches of government.

Walt Kelly, the wonderful cartoonist and author of POGO, called it precisely: "We have met the enemy, and he is us!" We on the right are the enemies of the far left. They want to have us silenced, fired from our jobs, sent to re-education centers to change the way we think. They consider people on the center left to be useful idiots who can be ignored unless they wander too far to the right. Antifa and BLM are also be in the 'useful idiot' category. But they can be dealt with when their usefulness expires.

But this brings us to the important question: "What is to be done about all this?"

We must first recognize that we have been fighting the wrong battles. While we have been distracted with national elections, the far left has been subverting our institutions. While we have been content to send our kids to schools, we have failed to understand that those schools are turning our kids against us.

Fortunately, we have one important truth on our side. One that cannot be taken away. That truth is that we still have the numbers. We need to learn how to properly use the strength that those numbers give us. I wish I could tell you that we have all the time in the world. We do not. We need to join together and stand for our country. We need to do this while our elections still matter. Because if we do not, our elections will cease to matter. And so will we.

This issue's final thought is also from Thomas Sowell:

“Much of the social history of the Western world, over the past three decades, has been a history of replacing what worked with what sounded good.”
